Protesting against oil dependency
Celebrating bikes and bodies

Our bodies are like the planet – naked and vulnerable in the face of fossil-fuelled aggression ...

But it's not too late to fight back!

The World Naked Bike Ride is an annual event held in over 50 cities around the world. Rides draw attention to the absurdity of oil dependency and the short-sightedness of car culture. They also highlight in a very graphic way the vulnerability of cyclists on our roads.

The Ride is actually clothing-optional – fully nude or as bare as you dare. We decorate our bodies and bikes with messages of opposition to oil dependency and car culture. Use body paint, flowers, feathers, attach flags and placards – get creative!

We cycle a pleasant and undemanding route through York and its suburbs, accompanied by music and much ringing of bells. The route has been agreed with North Yorkshire Police and the City of York Council.

Turn up from 4 pm for a cool, colourful and creative protest – we'll assemble just south of Millennium Bridge on the Fulford side. Bring bells, whistles and a bag or pannier for your clothes. The ride sets off at 5 pm.
